

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a process of producing highly purified proteases. The invention further provides the use of such purified proteases in treating cardiovascular disorders, including hypertension, stroke and thrombosis.